Trustee Comments

Trustee Guessferd: I was thrilled to see fine free on the Agenda. It has been far too long since we addressed this. I'm really glad we are going fine free. Looking at all that has gone on this past month, it blows my mind. There are so many things happening. We have such great staff doing such wonderful things. The community is so much better for it. Thank you to the staff.

Trustee St. Onge: I am going to give a shout out to Marissa who is putting up the rainbow display in the children's room. I don't know how they come up with unique, always different, always creative and colorful and eye catching ideas. I'm sure the children always enjoy that it is not the same old thing every time they walk in. I shared a comment on Facebook that everyone in the library is very welcoming. As soon as you walk in, there is somebody to greet you. It is not because I am a Trustee. I see them do it to everybody who walks in. If you feel down and blue because of all the rain storms and you want to go someplace welcoming and warm, come to the library.

Trustee Bohrer: I don't know what to add to that because I agree with everything you said. I'm a frequent user of the library as well. I agree that the children's room is delightful. Yesterday when I was in, I patted Dino the therapy dog. It was great therapy. When the survey for the Strategic Plan is released, please respond. We would like to hear your comments and willingness to participate.

Future Agenda Items: Policies and Hills Building future use and maturing CD.

John Burkitt came to share his mission at Gate City Bike Co-op, fixing up donated bikes and giving them away to people in need. While sipping mocktails, Marissa guided our guests in decorating a reusable tote bag with rhinestones. ## CHILDREN'S PROGRAMMING

The children's room continues to be busy! Our regular storytime programs are full. We have planned an additional preschool storytime for Friday afternoons starting in the fall. Patrons have enjoyed Saturday programs and evening programs as well. We have our summer presenters and programs planned. We are working on our program for summer reading promotion at school as well as all the details of the summer reading challenge and our summer programs. We will visit all the elementary schools during their library time May 19th through June 6th. We will take a break from programming in May to make time for school visits and summer reading preparations.

We were very excited to introduce a cookie tasting for National Oreo Day! We invited adults to join us for this one and many took us up on our offer of free cookies. We also partnered with NHVoices to offer free developmental screenings for families through a program they call Books, Blocks, and Balls. In April we are partnering with the Lions Club to offer vision screenings.
