HUDSON POLICE DEPARTMENT EARNS PRESTIGIOUS CALEA AWARD

Recently, four members of the Hudson Police Department traveled to Orlando, Florida to attend the 2022 Commission on Accreditation for Law Enforcement Agencies (CALEA) conference. Business trips, as one might expect, for Police Officers are rare, but this was definitely a special occasion. Recently promoted Chief Tad Dionne, along with Captain Dave Cayot, Lieutenant Steve McElhinney, and Sergeant Mike Corey represented the Hudson Police Department during the agencies final review hearing, following a four year re-accreditation process with the hopes of obtaining Meritorious, Advanced Law Enforcement Accreditation status, through CALEA. While this most recent assessment would only encompass the agencies performance over the last four years, the journey to national police accreditation for the Hudson Police Department started over forty years ago, when the agency had a much different reputation.

In the 1980's the Hudson Police Department was not known for its professionalism or commitment to community policing. In fact, The New Hampshire Times wrote a five page story in the October 7, 1981 issue boldly titled: "The Worst Police Force in the State?" – things needed to change.

Not surprisingly, change in law enforcement best comes from within and the men and women of the Hudson Police Department wanted a new reputation. Over the coming years, policies and procedures were developed and in 1999 the Hudson Police obtained State Law Enforcement Accreditation status under then Chief Richard Gendron and Accreditation Manager, Captain Bill Pease. Hudson's reputation was changing.

After obtaining State Law Enforcement Accreditation, the Hudson Police Department was first granted Advanced Law enforcement Accreditation status in 2003 through the Commission on Accreditation for Law Enforcement Agencies (CALEA). This process involved an extensive review, by the commission, of the department's policies and procedures, along with a physical inspection of the department and numerous interviews with Officers, staff, and the public. As an agency we have maintained that high standard through yearly evaluations, culminating in an on-site inspection and interviews with staff every four years. But what is CALEA and why is it important?

The Commission on Accreditation for Law Enforcement Agencies (CALEA) was established in 1979 under the direction of the International Association of Chiefs of Police, National Organization of Black Law Enforcement Executives, National Sheriffs' Association and the Police Executive Research Forum as a private, non-profit corporation tasked with creating a national law enforcement accreditation model.

Member agencies voluntarily maintain comprehensive and uniform written directives that clearly define authority, performance, and the responsibilities of the agency. These directives are intended to provide a framework to ensure Officers provide consistent service to our citizens to anything from a car accident to a natural or man-made critical incident.

In more recent times, CALEA has continued to prove its worth to the Hudson Police Department and the Town of Hudson through progressive policy changes and requirements concerning data reporting and transparency. Long before police reform was a catch phrase, CALEA member agencies had been required to complete yearly data reports which focused on police accountability. Statistics are compiled annually and detail officer's contacts with citizens during arrests, traffic violations, incidents concerning use of force, biased based policing, and department Internal Affairs investigations. These reports are even available for viewing on the Hudson Police Department website.

More recently, during the Covid-19 Pandemic, CALEA policies and procedures, which had already been in place, provided the Hudson Police Department with the ability to quickly transition services and ensure a continuity of operations through an unprecedented crisis. What's more, CALEA's policy and training platform, PowerDMS, allowed the HPD Administration the ability to publish updated protocols and town policy changes to our officers and staff and ensure virtual trainings were conducted and documented.

The Hudson Police Department is committed to providing the highest quality police service to the community we proudly serve. CALEA has helped us maintain that commitment and ensure we are following national best practices, anticipate challenges confronting law enforcement, and provide clear direction focused on community expectations.

Of the approximately 18,000 police departments in the United States, only 926 are currently certified through the Commission on Accreditation for Law Enforcement Agencies. We are honored to hold this unique distinction and will continue to commit ourselves to upholding the high standards of service which the citizens of Hudson deserve.

- Lt. Steve McElhinney is the HPD Accreditation Manager and has served with the Hudson Police since 2007.

Homes of the Hudson Police Department

In June 1995, the Town of Hudson and the Hudson Police Department, under the leadership of Chief Richard E. Gendron, achieved a major milestone when the Police Department moved into their new facility at 1 Constitution Drive. This facility was later showcased to the town at an open house where over 1300 residents toured it.

History shows us that a second milestone was also met, as this was the first time in the history of the Hudson Police Department that they had their own facility.

Our First Police Chief

Harry Connell served on the Police Force from 1913 until 1921 when he became Hudson's first Police Chief, serving in that capacity until 1946. He also served on the Fire department from 1912 and as Fire Chief from 1921 until 1946. The Police Department shared space in the leased Fire Department Building on Ferry Street. This building, located about where the Gulf Station is now, was later claimed by the State for access roads to the new bridge.

Hudson's Police Court

In the early 1900's Hudson had a police court with George W. Clyde and Nathaniel Wentworth acting as judges. There was a small grainery, left, on the bank of the Merrimack River off Webster Street which also served as a house of detention (jail) for individuals until they were released or transported to Nashua for longer stays and more secure accommodations.

According to the Town Report for the year ending 1918, the town paid Law and Ingham $13.00 to move a safe and cells. However, it did not state where they were moved from or to. Also, a brief article in the February 19, 1918 edition of the Nashua Telegraph, tells us that a young man named Roland Abbott had plans to repair and remodel the building and use it as a club house for the young people of Hudson. It is doubtful that this club house ever became a reality. We do know the building was later moved to Ferry Street, placed on a foundation and used as part of the dwelling at what is now 88 Ferry Street.

Officer "Andy" Polak and our Second Chief

Andrew "Andy" Polak served 34 years as a member of the Hudson Police Force and 26 of these as Police Chief. For the year ending January 31, 1943, the Police Department operated with a budget of $3,200; including $1,826 salary for H.J. Connell as Chief, 13 part time officers earning .50 per hour, and expenses for operating the police cruiser. Of the police officers Andy logged the most hours, earning a salary of $350.50 for 701 hours! In April 1946, Officer Polak was appointed Chief after Chief Harry Connell resigned due to poor health. Chief Polak remained in that capacity until his retirement in October 1972.

At the beginning of Chief Polak's tenure, the Police Department operated out of the 4 stall garage on Ferry Street leased by the town for the Fire and Police Departments.

How to Build a New Station Without Raising Taxes

Hudson was rapidly growing and so were the activities of the Police and Fire Departments and their leased garage was inadequate. The Selectmen and Fire Department had a plan: borrow money to purchase supplies and build the station with volunteer workers. The annual lease payments would just about pay off the loan. The Town voters approved the plan and by 1953 the Fire and Police Departments moved into the new facility.

Town Selectmen soon moved their office from the basement of the Hills Memorial Library into the new Central Fire Station. Later the upstairs was used for temporary classrooms, then for meetings and classes for both departments with space for supplies.

Town Office Building Constructed — Police Move Again

By the end of 1965, the initial 4,800 sq. ft. Town Office Building was completed and the Selectmen, Police Department, and other town departments moved into the facility. In 1974 a 30 x 60 foot addition was built and in 1985 a second addition was approved by the town. All this while the Police Department remained in the 12 School Street facility until 1995 when Chief Gendron moved his department into their own facility at 1 Constitution Drive.

New Inspectional Services Vehicles Have Arrived

Public Works Keeps Benson Park Beautiful

The Town of Hudson Department of Public Works is a dedicated team of workers whose primary goal is to maintain the approximately 190 miles of the town's roadways in order to ensure public safety.

Another important objective also includes continuous grooming and maintenance of Benson Park's 166 acres throughout the year.

They are responsible for the continuous mowing, tree trimming, mulching, maintenance issues, 911 Memorial grooming and the function of the aerator system in Swan Lake.

We are happy to announce our two new Inspectional Services vehicles recently went into service. These Ford Ranger pick-ups have replaced a 2005 Chevy Colorado and a 2004 Chevy Tahoe.

We're off to another busy start with over 3,300 inspections completed in 2021 and 2022, you may have already seen them on the road throughout town today.

These new vehicles are equipped to aid in the daily functions of our Inspectional Services team.

Hey There! Volunteers Needed!

Benson Park depends upon volunteers to help maintain, restore and preserve it. Volunteerism is high within the park as demonstrated by the attendance at clean up days that are held throughout the year.

Meet the New VACTOR TRUCK

The Town of Hudson DPW took delivery of a new 2100i Vactor truck in November of 2021. This $435,000 investment incorporates the latest technology and power available today. This truck is built on a Freightliner 114 SD chassis powered by a 400 horsepower Cumming diesel engine.

The robust dual stage fan system will vacuum sand, gravel, and rocks as large as 6 inches in diameter. This vacuum power is used for cleaning catch basins in town, removing food grease from the wet wells at the sewer pump stations, and removing debris from sewer manholes.

The heart of the water system on this truck is a 3,000 PSI rodder pump-fed by 1,300 gallons of onboard water. This pump supplies the handheld spray guns and the 600' jet flushing system that is used to clean sewer mains.

The front of this truck is full of technology. The operator controls the vacuum system, the water system and the engine controls from one central station. All of the systems are designed with fuel savings in mind. The operator can control the water flow and pressure from the front of the truck using less water to feed the jet nozzle out into the sewer main, and turning up the water flow and pressure as they are pulling back and cleaning the mains. This results in less water use and lower engine RPM during the cleaning process.

The vacuum system is a three setting system running on lower engine RPM for easier jobs, and running at a higher RPM for the real tough jobs. Since putting this truck on the road we have found that over 75% of the work we do can be completed on low or mid power. Once again resulting in fuel savings.

“ We are thankful to the residents of Hudson for voting to purchase this important piece of equipment. ”

The operator can see the water level, tank levels from the front station.

The large 12 cubic yard debris tank allows for fewer trips to the dump site.

The cyclone filtration system and the water ring keeps airborne dust to a minimum.

Technology isn't just in the truck, the operators use an iPad, tied into the towns GIS system to record the catch basins they clean and do an inspection of the catch basin including photographs. This helps the town maintain compliance with the EPA MS4 Permit.

This truck has to be available year round to respond to sewer calls, to handle that need this truck is equipped with a cold weather recirculation system which prevent the water system from freezing.

The Town of Hudson owns and maintains over 4,200 catch basins. Each year the DPW sets a goal to clean over 1,400 catch basins. The Sewer systems consists of over 80 miles of mains ranging in sizes ranging from 8" to 36". It is our practice to routinely clean several miles sewer mains, especially in areas prone to grease buildup, to keep the sewer system free from clogs and backups.

We are thankful to the residents of Hudson for voting to purchase this important piece of equipment.
